Good news for CIC and Laclede: A gas boom 'for decades'

Greg Edwards
180 words
28 February 2013
St. Louis Business Journal Online
STLBJO
© 2013 American City Business Journals, Inc. All rights reserved.

Here’s a headline from the front page of The Wall Street Journal today that must have warned the hearts of our friends at CIC Group and Laclede Group: "Gas boom projected to grow for decades [http://online.wsj.com/article/SB100014241278873293704578330700203397128.html?KEYWORDS=%22gas+boom+projected+to+grow%22]."

"We are looking at multi, multi decades of growth," said Scott Tinker, director of the Bureau of Economic Geology at the University of Texas, which conducted a study funded by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation.

Revenue at CIC Group, a St. Louis-based company in the energy construction industry, increased 30 percent last year [http://www.bizjournals.com/stlouis/print-edition/2013/02/08/cic-group-poised-to-explode-on-the.html], to $1.2 billion, thanks to the natural gas boom. The company is conservatively projecting $1.5 billion in three years.

Utilities such as Laclede, which operates Laclede Gas, also are benefiting, President and CEO Suzanne Sitherwood told the Business Journal [http://www.bizjournals.com/stlouis/print-edition/2012/06/08/fired-up-laclede-ceo-suzanne.html?page=all].

Both companies are seeking and making acquisitions.

Did you find this article useful? Why not subscribe [https://secure.bizjournals.com/subscribe/selectTerm?market=stlouis&ana=cstpd&csrc=6355] to St. Louis Business Journal for more articles and leads? Visit bizjournals.com/subscribe or call 1-866-853-3661.